

Global health: developing leaders

Free seminars to develop global health advocates

Responding to emergencies: the challenges of NGO competition

This seminar aims to explore the immediate response to emergency situations requiring humanitarian or healthcare intervention. What challenges arise from having multiple agencies arriving simultaneously? Is there a balance of power at play, and how do they interact with each other and with pre-existing health systems? The discussion will consider examples of emergency situations where the response has been effective and less successful.

Speakers to include:

Annie Devonport – Head of Programmes and Accountability, Disasters Emergency Committee

Dr Amy Hughes – UK International Emergency Trauma Register

Dr Aula Abbara – Hand in Hand for Syria

Thursday 27 March 2014

18:30 – 20:00

Followed by a drinks reception

Reserve your place: email international@rcplondon.ac.uk

Royal College of Physicians | Regents Park | London | NW1 4LE